Ohio State University, Columbus, OH

Ohio State University needed to provide a walkway between buildings that would shelter students and faculty from undesirable weather elements. They sought the professional team of C.S.P. to solve their dilemma.

The curved Solarium walkway spans more than 150 feet between the natatorium and gymnasium. Part of the challenge to this installation was the walkway being located on the third floor. The team of C.S.P. met the challenge and provided a Solarium walkway that exceeded the expectations of the University.

By utilizing a combination of free-standing and lean-to walkways, the aesthetics of the completed project were greatly enhanced. Thermostatically controlled ventilation fans were incorporated in the design to maintain proper air circulation and comfort.

The building benefits are:

- Custom design
- Turnkey services
- Quality installation by certified employee owners
- Quaker bronze aluminum, duracron/polycron finish
- 1" bronze insulated glazing throughout
- 38" bay centers
